Employee	Devika Rao, fictional individual resident in Mumbai, Maharashtra.
Position	Senior Machine Learning Engineer
Effective Date	1 October 2026

This fictional Employment Agreement (the “Agreement”) sets out the terms on which NeonForge Systems Pvt. Ltd. (the “Company”) proposes to employ Devika Rao (the “Employee”). It is intended solely as a realistic sample document for demonstrating LawPilot document analysis, clause extraction, comparison, evidence linking, and action planning.

1. Appointment and Duties

The Company appoints the Employee as Senior Machine Learning Engineer beginning 1 October 2026. The Employee will perform engineering, research, documentation, and related duties reasonably assigned by the Company and will comply with lawful Company policies communicated from time to time.

The Employee will devote the working time reasonably required for the role and will promptly disclose material conflicts of interest. Nothing in this Agreement guarantees promotion, a particular project, or continued assignment to any specific team.

2. Compensation and Benefits

The Employee will receive a total target cost-to-company compensation of INR 32,00,000 per annum, subject to applicable payroll deductions and the Company’s compensation policies. The monthly base component is INR 1,85,000, with the balance comprising variable or benefits-linked components described in the Company’s compensation schedule.

Variable compensation, bonuses, benefits, and reimbursements may be subject to applicable policy terms and are not guaranteed unless expressly stated in writing.

3. Probation and Confirmation

The first six (6) months of employment will be a probationary period. The Company may extend probation by up to three (3) additional months by written notice where performance, conduct, or role suitability requires further review.

Confirmation of employment will be communicated in writing. Absence of a written confirmation does not by itself amend the other provisions of this Agreement.

4. Working Hours and Remote Work

The Employee will ordinarily work five days per week. The Employee may work remotely when approved under the Company's remote-work policy.

The Employee acknowledges that Company-managed systems may collect device, security, access, and productivity telemetry reasonably connected to security, compliance, and operational purposes. The Employee will be informed of material changes to such monitoring policies.

5. Notice Period, Garden Leave and Exit

After confirmation, either party may terminate employment by giving ninety (90) calendar days' written notice, subject to applicable law and any written agreement between the parties to shorten or waive the notice period.

During the notice period, the Company may place the Employee on garden leave and may restrict access to confidential systems or customer environments. Any accrued and payable amounts will be handled under applicable law and Company policy.

6. Training and Reimbursement

The Company may sponsor external technical training for the Employee. If the Company pays documented training fees exceeding INR 4,50,000 in aggregate during the first twelve (12) months of employment, the Employee agrees to discuss reimbursement of the documented cost if the Employee resigns voluntarily within twelve (12) months after completion of the relevant training.

Any reimbursement calculation should take account of documented expenditure, the timing of the training, and any written repayment schedule communicated with the training approval. The parties acknowledge that the reimbursement mechanism is intended to address specified training expenditure and not to operate as an automatic penalty.

7. Confidentiality

The Employee must keep confidential all non-public technical, commercial, financial, customer, security, product, and business information obtained through employment. Confidential information includes source code, model weights, system designs, product roadmaps, pricing information, customer data, credentials, and non-public research.

This obligation does not apply to information that becomes public through no breach of this Agreement, was lawfully known to the Employee before disclosure, or must be disclosed by law after reasonable notice where legally permitted.

8. Intellectual Property and Prior Inventions

To the extent permitted by applicable law, the Employee will promptly disclose to the Company inventions, works, designs, software, models, documentation, and other materials created in the course of employment and directly related to the Company's business, products, or assigned work.

The parties intend the assignment to cover work created using Company resources or within the scope of the Employee's assigned duties. The Employee may identify pre-existing inventions, open-source contributions, or personal projects in Exhibit A. Ownership of a pre-existing item will not transfer merely because it is listed in Exhibit A.

9. Post-Employment Restrictions

For twelve (12) months after the end of employment, the Employee will not, to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, directly provide substantially similar machine-learning services to a competitor anywhere in India where doing so would require use or disclosure of the Company's confidential information.

The parties acknowledge that the enforceability and scope of post-employment restrictions can depend on applicable law, the nature of the restriction, and the circumstances of the employment relationship. Nothing in this clause is intended to prevent lawful employment, professional mobility, or use of the Employee's general skills and experience to the extent protected by law.

10. Termination for Cause

The Company may terminate employment for material misconduct, fraud, material breach of confidentiality, serious security violations, or other grounds permitted by applicable law, subject to any process required by law or Company policy.

On termination, the Employee must return Company property and preserve confidential information. Any post-termination obligations that lawfully survive termination will remain in force.

11. Dispute Resolution and Arbitration

The parties will first attempt in good faith to resolve employment-related disputes through a written discussion between the Employee and an authorized Company representative.

If a dispute remains unresolved, either party may request arbitration in Mumbai under applicable Indian arbitration law. The arbitration will be conducted by a neutral arbitrator jointly appointed by the parties. If the parties cannot agree on an arbitrator, the appointment will be made through the procedure available under applicable law.

12. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This Agreement is intended to be governed by the laws of India. Subject to the arbitration provisions above and applicable mandatory law, courts having appropriate jurisdiction in Mumbai, Maharashtra may be approached for interim or supervisory relief.

13. Company Policies and Order of Precedence

The Employee agrees to comply with reasonable Company policies relating to information security, acceptable use, data protection, workplace conduct, and remote work, as updated from time to time.

If a Company policy conflicts with an express term of this Agreement, the express term of this Agreement will control unless the parties expressly agree otherwise in writing or a mandatory legal requirement applies.

14. Entire Agreement and Amendments

This Agreement and any expressly incorporated schedules constitute the understanding between the parties concerning the subject matter addressed here. Any amendment to material compensation, restrictive covenants, or governing-law provisions should be in writing and acknowledged by both parties.

Exhibit A - Prior Inventions / Personal Projects

The Employee may attach a list of pre-existing inventions, repositories, research, open-source projects, or personal works that should remain outside the scope of Company ownership, provided the list is sufficiently specific to identify the relevant item.

- Personal project: “MangoRoute” routing library, created before joining the Company.
- Open-source contribution history maintained under the Employee’s personal Git account.
- Prior research notebooks and academic code unrelated to the Company’s products.
